Nataliia Marchuk (known as Natalia March) is a UK based artist.

Natalia was born in Ukraine in 1999, she's had passion for art since her childhood, she looked up to her grandparents, who are artists, a lot while growing up.

When Natalia was 5 years old, her parents would send her to her grandmother to teach her the basics of academic drawing. Her grandmother was very strict teacher, she used to say: "If you want to be an artist, be the best one or don't be one at all".

Natalia's parents were impressed by her rapid progress at such an early age, she was determined to learn more.

Natalia moved onto other mediums of art including oil painting. She gave her first ever oil painting to her grandmother as a present, and her second oil painting was sold at an auction when she was 13.

In Natalia's teenage years, she was taking art classes after school, then she got an art scholarship to go to a boarding school for her high-school, and she graduated all of her programs with honors.

From the age of 16, following her graduation, she enrolled in two universities at once and she moved out her parents' house. At that time she was travelling a lot and lived in countries like Germany, Bulgaria, Italy and England. She took every possible opportunity to exhibit her artworks, expand her knowledge and build her network.
